“The Importance of Time” circa 1960

The Sioux Falls L. G. Everist, Inc. office will soon be moving from its current location to the new Washington Square building. The staff in the office have been tasked with going through the many files that have been kept throughout the years in an effort to “reduce & simplify” what will be moved to the office.

In the process of doing so, an issue of LGE’s Roxsand dated September 1960 has been “re-discovered”. The look and feel has changed over the years, having gone from bi-annual to quarterly to the now weekly format, and also having gone from full booklet format with reports of what was happening at each and every site to the one page writings we see today.

Even with these changes, one thing still remains – LGE continues to have an appreciation for its employees and takes the opportunity to showcase the great things they do every day, both at work and in their personal lives.

Thank you, LGE, for the never ending Rock Solid gratitude and support regarding your employees. ~Chris Klein, Sioux Falls

Wasta has finished shipping sand to Northwestern Eng. Co. on the interchange highway that is bypassing Rapid City and will finish with Peter Kiewit soon. Site 1-A of Titan Missiles and various jobs in the Badlands area are still receiving shipments.

We are now busy furnishing crushed rock for two paving jobs. The paving jobs, Valley Springs and Watertown, are about completed but Earle and his men have some mighty hungry orange peels swinging on the cranes down at Sioux City.

The following sign is posted in an office trailer at one of the missile sites: “Anyone who can remain calm in this confusion, simply doesn’t understand the situation.”

La oficina de Sioux Falls L. G. Everist, Inc. pronto se moverá de su ubicación actual al nuevo edificio de Washington Square. El personal de la oficina tiene la tarea de revisar los muchos archivos que se han guardado a lo largo de los años en un esfuerzo por “reducir y simplificar” lo que se trasladará a la oficina.

En el proceso de hacerlo, un tema de Roxsand de LGE con fecha de septiembre de 1960 ha sido “redescubierto”. La apariencia ha cambiado a lo largo de los años, pasando del formato bianual al trimestral al ahora semanal, y también ha pasado del formato de folleto completo con informes de lo que estaba sucediendo en cada sitio a los escritos de una página que vemos hoy.

Incluso con estos cambios, todavía queda algo: LGE sigue apreciando a sus empleados y aprovecha la oportunidad para mostrar las grandes cosas que hacen todos los días, tanto en el trabajo como en su vida personal.

Gracias, LGE, por la gratitud y apoyo sin fin de Rock Solid con respecto a sus empleados. ~Chris Klein, Sioux Falls
