Moving into 2024 using Rock Solid Experience From the Past!

By: Mark Miller / Terminal Supervisor, Kelker

Although complacency can lead to dangerous mistakes, experience helps a team run like a well-oiled machine. Experience is a treasure trove of lessons learned and mistakes made. It's the culmination of years spent navigating the ups and downs of different situations. When team members have experience, they bring a wealth of knowledge and insights that can help guide the team towards success. Experience has a tremendous impact on team performance. When team members have been around the block a few times, they know what works and what doesn't. They can anticipate challenges, recognize patterns, and make sound decisions based on past experiences. This increases not only performance but safety.

Shared experiences create a common ground for team members to connect and collaborate. When individuals have faced similar challenges or achieved shared successes, it fosters a sense of camaraderie. Team members are able to relate to each other's struggles, offer support, and work together towards common goals.

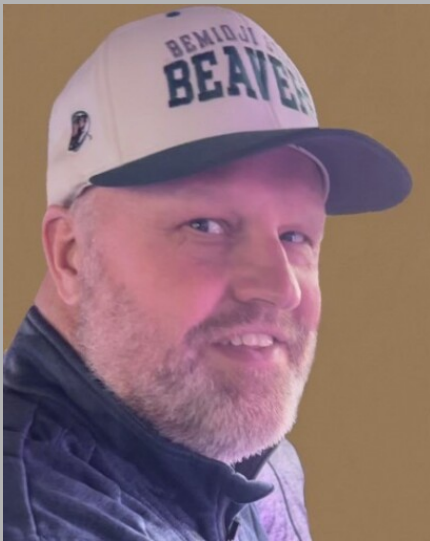

Here at the Kelker terminal not much has changed this past year, but for an increased transload of approximately 40,000 tons over 2022. One great thing that has not changed is the members of our team. I am moving past my 13th year here at Kelker. Christian has been with us for 12 years, and Dusty has been here all together 8 years. I am grateful for an experienced, dependable team that can get the job done Rock Solid, correctly, and safely so that we all go home to our families at the end of the day.
