Going Mobile

Written by Paul Lebahn, Dell Rapids Shop Manager

The Dell Rapids Shop has been working on setting up a couple of mobile service trucks to take care of day-to-day repairs and breakdowns.

One of these is a mobile welding truck (middle photo) that can handle most plant-related repairs, including structural fixes, wear-related replacements, and welds on-site. This addition allows us to respond quickly to issues without having to transport the down equipment.

We've welcomed Micah Jones to the team to operate the welding truck. He brings with him several years of experience working on crushers, conveyors, and other components of aggregate plants. With his knowledge and mobility, we will be able to access and service most aggregate crushing plants throughout the Midwest. The scheduling for the welding truck will be managed by Josh Nyquist.

The second vehicle in our mobile fleet is our fully outfitted equipment truck (bottom photo), which is set up to handle just about any mechanical, hydraulic, or electrical repair that can be done in the field. This truck will be manned by Jason Fedeler and Gaylord Clark.

These new additions significantly improve our service capabilities and reduce equipment downtime in the field.

Dells East Improvements

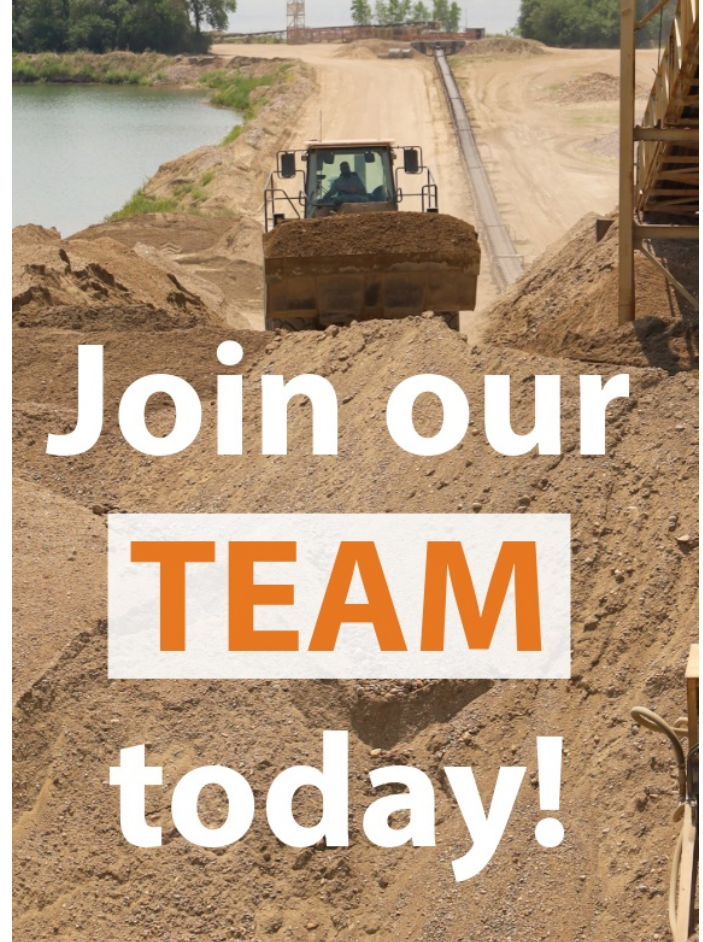

Mike Bunkers' team gave the office area a little face lift recently at the Dells East Quarry. Myrl & Roy's did the paving, and several Dells East Quarry employees did the landscaping.
